Sport for All: Building Bridges for Inclusion, Equity, and Harmony

Official Policy Statement – Call to action

Sport for All and physical activity belongs to everyone and can be considered part of the common good. In light of current global trends, especially the rise of conflicts and geopolitical tensions, divisions, wars, polarisation and inequalities, Sport for All can play an important role in diplomacy, appeasing relationships, fostering peace, enhancing resilience and wellbeing, and connecting people and communities.

We must respond to these current global conflicts and divides as well as:

- a shift toward more transactional and individualistic societies,
- an increase of loneliness connected with a loss of social cohesion,
- the rapid development of digital technologies and AI with unpredictable consequences,
- a majority of humankind living in urban areas,
- an aging population across all continents,
- the rise of the prevalence of Non-Communicable Diseases
- and the general decline of physical activity levels all over the world.

In line with “TAFISA Mission 2030 - For a Better World Through Sport for All”, we seek to remove barriers, invest in accessible programs, and foster inclusive leadership, as well as build a more equitable, cohesive, and healthy society.

Our commitment is to position Sport for All as a universal language to drive policy and action that lead to impact, and unites people.

Key commitments

- Ensure universal access to quality Sport for All and physical activity opportunities for all ages, abilities, and backgrounds,
- Prioritise targeted support for underrepresented and marginalised communities,
- Promote inclusive leadership, coaching, and governance that reflect diversity,
- Leverage Sport for All as a tool for peacemaking and peacebuilding,
- Implement adequate good governance, transparency, and safeguarding policy and frameworks in Sport for All,
- Collect and leverage data through monitoring, reporting, and feedback mechanisms,
- Develop sustainable partnerships and ensure the responsible use of resources,
- Utilise Sport for All systematically as a solution to tackle challenges and contribute to positive social outcomes.

Principles

- Inclusion: Strive to remove barriers to participation at all levels – physical, financial, informational, and cultural,
- Equity: Allocate resources where they have the greatest impact — to ensure real equality in access to sport and physical activity,

THE 29TH TAFISA

- Harmony: Use Sport for All and physical activity to cultivate mutual respect and understanding, teamwork, and peaceful coexistence,
- Building Bridges: Share data, knowledge, expertise, and networks among stakeholders from all relevant sectors to enhance our impact through collective action.

Call to action

We invite governments, policymakers, decision-makers, funders, federations, schools, clubs, sponsors, media, and communities to join us in acknowledging and harnessing the full power of Sport for All and physical activity to build bridges for inclusion, equity, and harmony.

It is time we all take notice, take responsibility, take action, and, through Sport for All, commit to creating a better world for the next generation.
